

RICK ENGINEERING COMPANY

Case Study

The Project

Location 1 (Fall 2021):

During COVID, while everyone was WFH, RICK Engineering seized the opportunity while their building was empty to research and craft office environment upgrades. RICK was committed to transforming the office into a modern environment where people wanted to come and work everyday. RICK contacted Arnold's to modernize their outdated San Diego, CA, headquarters furniture with 130 new Sunline cubicles.

Location 2 (Summer 2023):

During the San Diego project, RICK acquired another engineering firm in Tucson, AZ, and while San Diego was getting installed, they continued their mission to standardize RICK's offices by ordering another 12 new Sunline workstations with upgrades.

About Our Client:

Founded in 1955, RICK has remained a private, family-owned civil engineering company with over 400 employees across 11 western US locations. RICK's mission is to "partner with clients to create resilient communities and infrastructure through innovative and dynamic solutions." This shines through their more than 10,000 landmark projects completed across the country and partnership developed with Arnold's.

The Solution

RICK Engineering worked hand-in-hand with Arnold's on having two model cubes ordered and installed at their headquarters to test out and "convince them" of their flexibility, durability, and overall design. To no surprise, our workstations impressed even the toughest crowds at RICK, and within days they were placing their first location order. They had plenty of time and opted to order factory direct from Arnold's for a discount, and within a few months, were ordering 12 more cubicles for their second location while they installed at their San Diego HQ.
