

STATERA LAW

Case Study

The Project

Statera Law (Spring 2022):

Laura Cohen from Statera Law reached out to Arnold's as well as other office furniture companies in April of 2022 inquiring about glass panels, office doors, and a specific layout they needed for their new office space.

Along with the design and price of the product, one of the reasons they chose to work with Arnold's was because of the excellent communication our team provided in the beginning. Arnold's was extremely proud to outfit Stateras office in Newton, MA with 4 of our Sunline Signature private offices.

STATERA LAW

About Our Client:

Statera Law is a law firm that has been providing real estate professional needs since 2021. They are approved to represent well over 150 institutions lending to buyers in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and other New England States.

"We wanted a more professional look and greater privacy than the conventional cubicles provided. This was a tight space in which the designers helped us achieve our goals." - Laura Cohen

The Solution

Statera wanted a more professional look with greater privacy but had a tight space they needed help designing in a short timeframe (a few weeks). Arnold's was able to provide them with the furniture and look they wanted in the timeframe they needed.

We filled their office space with our Sunline Signature private offices consisting mostly of glass panels and a swinging glass door. This option provided a nice clean look and allowed for easy communication which was important to Statera!
