

US Navy Point Mugu

Case Study

The Project

US Navy Point Mugu (Summer 2024):

Faced with outdated workstations that no longer met their functional or aesthetic needs, US Navy Point Mugu set out to modernize six office spaces with updated, ergonomic, and stylish furniture. After discovering Arnold's Office Furniture through a Google search, they chose to partner with our team to execute a complete office upgrade. What set us apart from other office furniture companies was our website's detailed product imagery, showcasing fully assembled cubicle setups, a comprehensive list of available accessories, and a wide selection of color options and private office solutions.

Over the course of just two weeks—and through several phased installations—Arnold's delivered a customized solution that transformed the workspace into a cohesive, functional, and visually appealing environment, complete with Sunline Signature workstations, office desks, conference tables, ergonomic chairs, and more!

About Our Client:

The US Navy's Point Mugu base, now part of Naval Base Ventura County, is home to several key units including the Airborne Command Control and Logistics Wing, which supports four E-2C Hawkeye squadrons, Fleet Logistics Support Squadron 55, and Air Test and Evaluation Squadron Three Zero. It also houses the Naval Air Warfare Center Weapons Division. The base's primary function is to support the Navy's missile test range and other activities, including the test and evaluation of ordnance.

The Solution

Arnold's Office Furniture collaborated closely with US Navy Point Mugu to ensure a smooth and efficient office transformation. From the outset, the Arnold's team clearly communicated the timeline and overall process, setting expectations and keeping the client informed at every step.

Alissa Ettorre, Account Manager at Arnold's, played a key role in guiding the client through furniture selection, color coordination, and the layout of each office space. The design turnaround time was efficient, with floor plans and furniture designs delivered within a reasonable timeframe, allowing the project to stay on track.

While there were minor hiccups, such as a few missing parts, the overall experience was very positive. The professionalism of the Arnold's team, combined with furniture that matched the client's style and quality expectations, left US Navy Point Mugu highly satisfied with the final result. They now enjoy a fully upgraded workspace that reflects both functionality and modern aesthetics.
